

Supporting Management

From our experience of working in and for large companies we know that as resources become fewer and yet results are expected to be consistently better, many managers find their managerial roles being given less priority than their operational roles&hellip;. The Result can be a vicious circle leading to a downward spiral of morale, motivation, job satisfaction (and that is only the managers) &hellip;

At Experience UK Ltd we offer support to managers who find themselves in this position or who would simply like to try a new approach to the old challenge &ldquo; how to get more for less&rdquo; ( we first identify the more of What .. and the less of what . .then we take it from there)

For more details on these methods simply click on the drop down area above&hellip;..